Critical Thinking at the Bedside: Strategies That Work!

Friday, February 16, 2024
8:30 a.m. - 12:15 p.m.

Location:

Livestream Webinar

In affiliation with the Duke AHEC Program

Target Audience

Licensed nurses, nursing faculty, and nursing students.

Program Description

The purpose of this interactive seminar is to explore the impact of critical thinking on patient outcomes. Content includes practical critical thinking strategies (that work!), symptom analysis, barriers to and strategies that promote critical thinking, early recognition of impending doom in patients, and correlation between critical thinking and time management.

Objectives

Upon completion of this program, participants will be able to:

- Analyze definitions of critical thinking.
- Describe how to perform Symptom Analysis.
- Identify early symptoms of impending doom in patients.
- Discuss barriers to critical thinking
- Implement strategies that enhance critical thinking at the bedside.

Speaker

Pam Collins, RN, MSN, CMSRN, RN-MEDSURG BC, NP-BC has 40 years of varied nursing experiences that include administration/management, education, and work as an education and legal consultant. While Pam currently works as an Independent Consultant, she maintains her skills by working for a healthcare system in Charlotte, NC. Pam is dually certified in medical-surgical nursing from the American Nurses Credentialing Center and the Academy of Medical Surgical Nurses and is also certified in Nursing Professional Development. Pam has extensive experience with the legal aspects of nursing practice and has served as a consultant and expert witness for medical-surgical related cases involving nurses.

Pam's accomplishments include published author of articles, textbook chapters, and most recently, a medical-surgical nursing certification review book. She speaks nationally on clinical and legal topics for healthcare professionals. Pam has been the recipient of various awards, served as flight nurse in the United States Air Force Reserve, and past member of the advisory panel for the American Nurses Credentialing Center.
